Milfoil Prevention in Little Hosmer Pond

The final two checks of Little Hosmer were done the middle of August and the middle of September. No Eurasian milfoil was found. Some kind of a floating green algae was found at the north end of the lake in August and early September, but it was gone by mid-September. Diane has reported to the State on our findings and asked if the algae is something to be concerned about, but has not heard back yet. Diane has also sent a report of the summer's work to residents living on and around the lake.
